The Connections Project

A Positive Mental Health initiative led by Elk Island Catholic Schools.

The Connections Project promotes positive mental health through building relationships and teaching emotional regulation skills.

In partnership with Dr. Jody Carrington and Alberta Health Services, we are working to create healthy school environments that address the human need for connection as a prerequisite for learning.

As Catholic educators, we are called to witness our relationship with Christ, and allow it to light our relationship with students.

"We need to connect in order to have a significant impact"

– Dr. Jody Carrington
